A dried fruit medley of blackcurrant, sultana, and plum rises from the glass alongside floral essences of honeysuckle and lavender. Flavors of smoky pepper beef up the sweet notes of cinnamon and toasted caramel.

The nose is light and elegant with hints of toffee, mandarin, and pressed flowers. The palate is smooth and sensual. It is extremely well-balanced with a graceful, spicy, almost peppery finish that demonstrates great persistency. This is an excellent Malmsey wine.

Golden color, proper citrus acidity and the dryness that goes with wood aging. At the end, though, the liquid honey flavors are dominant.

(17/20pts) Walnut-skin aroma and bitter sweetness and tangy orange zest. Rich, gentle and finely balanced. Almost too polished.
